MRI Nanofab Education and Outreach Activities

The Materials Research Institute’s Nanofabrication Lab is not just utilized by faculty and researchers, it is also used as a facility to educate students, train people for future employment, and provide community outreach to K-12. This poster will highlight some of those recent activities.